

SUMMONS SENATORS TO PLEAD FOR JONES

Wilson Argues for Confirmation of Chicagoan in Series of Conferences.

Administration hopes to gain by delay is not known.

Both Senators Bankhead and Pomeroy, who were among the President's callers who discussed the reserve board nominations today, likewise discussed the nomination of Jones. Bankhead recommended R. W. Walker, of Alabama, for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court to succeed the late Associate Justice Lurton. Senator Pomeroy, who was chairman of the subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, which examined Mr. Jones as to his record in the Harvester trust, also talked about the long delay in filling the Federal judgeship in northern Ohio. The nomination of John H. Clark, of Cleveland, for this appointment went in today.

Claimed by Both Sides.

Senator Clarke, of Arkansas whose vote is being claimed by both sides in the controversy, was also in conference with the President. Although the President's friends hope to be able to depend on Senator Clarke, the opponents of the President declare that Jones' defense of the International Harvester Trust has been quite sufficient to antagonize a Senator hailing from an agricultural State like Arkansas.

Senator Thomas, of Colorado, was likewise in conference with the President. Appreciating the serious situation, Secretary to the President Tumulty, who has been untiring in his fight for the confirmation of Mr. Jones, had a conference at the White House last night which lasted until long after midnight. Present were Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, the two political experts of the Cabinet; Samuel J. Graham, Assistant Attorney General; Alexander M. Dockery, third Assistant Postmaster General; and Senator Swanson of Virginia. The whole situation was carefully canvassed, and it is said, the outlook was found to be far from encouraging.

Action On Warburg to Wait.

Pending settlement of the fight over the Jones appointment, the Administration will not move a step toward forcing the confirmation of Paul M. Warburg, of New York city. The President feels that the fight against Warburg is less serious than that against the Chicago man. It is believed that if Jones is defeated, Warburg will be prevailed upon to go before the Senate Banking and Currency committee and answer its questions. If this concession is made to the right of a Senate committee to summon before it anyone awaiting confirmation, Warburg will not be handled roughly and it is believed that his nomination will be confirmed.

May Lose by Public Session.

The question of whether to consider the Jones case in public session instead of behind closed doors is still unsettled. The vote on this matter also will be close. Opponents of Jones are fully convinced that if his nomination is considered in the open he will be beaten. Senators opposed to Jones said today they would support many protests against his confirmation.

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee held another meeting today for the purpose of making up the record and report on the Jones nomination. The report, it is understood, will contain a discussion of the legal proceedings of the Government against the International Harvester Company, of which Jones was a director.

It is admitted in Administration circles that Senators Reed, Hitchcock, O'Gorman, Latta, Martine, and Vandaman will vote against Jones. Senator Bankhead, it is admitted, may do so. In other quarters it is believed several other Democrats will vote against Jones. Senator Sherman of Illinois is the only Republican who will vote for Jones. The fact that a number of Republicans are absent may work in Jones' favor.

No vote is looked for, except on the question of public sessions, for several days.

Finds Secrecy Futile.

Senator Thomas of Colorado, with considerable humor, arose in the Senate today and commented on the elaborate reports of the Senate secret session as they appeared in the newspapers.

"I notice that whenever the doors are closed the papers have not only elaborate but correct reports," said he. "I am in favor of closing the doors in order that we may get such reports."

He added that the reports of the secret sessions were better than those on the open sessions.

PROTEST TO WILSON ON ANTI-TRUST BILL

Kansas City Men Opposed to Paragraph of Definitions in Clayton Measure.

President Wilson continued today his conference with big business men regarding the proposed anti-trust legislation. R. A. Long, Charles S. Keith, and J. B. White, prominent business men of Kansas City, conferred with the President for about an hour, during which time they advanced a number of objections to the proposed legislation. Like the Chicago men, they argued against the paragraph of definitions in the Clayton bill, and contended that the Trade Commission should be given authority to determine after investigation that should be regarded as proper or improper practices.

The President expressed to his visitors the hope that the trust legislation, when completed, would work no hardships on legitimate business, and that the big concerns of the country would find in it a constitutional freedom.

PATTERSON CASE UP IN WRIGHT INQUIRY

Attorney Collins Says That Justice Refused to Sign Bill of Exceptions.

Exhaustive probing into the maze of legal proceedings characterizing the trial and review of the trial by the Court of Appeals of the case of Attorney John H. Patterson, whom Justice Daniel Thew Wright sentenced to four years' imprisonment on an embezzlement charge, was made by the subcommittee investigating the Wright impeachment charges today.

Attorney John E. Collins, who appeared for Patterson before Justice Wright and later appealed from the latter's decision to the upper court, was vigorously examined by Chairman McCoy, and his cross-examination by Attorney Darlington, in behalf of Justice Wright, was equally exhaustive.

On direct testimony Mr. Collins declared that Justice Wright refused to sign a bill of exceptions he prepared in Patterson case, and "thereby his client's case was prejudiced before the higher court." He told of Justice Wright raising certain claims on a bill of exceptions he prepared and contended that "Patterson was left in a desperate condition before the Court of Appeals, by reason of the fact that the full testimony heard in the lower court was not considered in review."

Attorney Baker Heard.
The first witness examined today was Attorney Daniel W. Baker, formerly United States District Attorney, who corrected a statement made when testifying Monday with reference to Justice Gould's part in the case. Baker said Gould's part in the case was to prepare a bill of exceptions and to refuse to sign it. He said that Justice Wright had looked into the matter and had decided that the bill of exceptions was not a proper one, and that he had signed it.

Attorney Baker was asked to tell the committee how he felt about the case, which he was concerned. The witness said: "I appeared in the case entitled the United States vs. Thomas M. Fields, tried before Justice Wright, and I believe Justice Wright asked me to see some instructions to the jury which I was going to offer. There were twenty-seven prayers, I believe. I gave them to him, and after recess he announced that he overruled them as a series, and did not offer them, and I told him that I intended to offer them separately. He said they were a series, and he overruled them as a series. The prayers were ultimately ruled on separately, however."

Patterson Case Resumed.
On cross-examination by Attorney Darlington, Mr. Baker said the decision of Justice Wright in the case was affirmed by the Court of Appeals.

Chairman McCoy then put into the record a ruling of the Court of Appeals in the Patterson case and a motion made by Attorney Collins moving to strike out a bill of exceptions filed by Attorney Proctor, then District Attorney. The resumption of the Patterson case was then made.

Meat Still Soaring, Figures Show

Meat prices are still soaring, according to statistics made public by the Department of Agriculture, showing average prices received by the producers of the country.

These tables show that the producers received $2.2 a hundred pounds for beef cattle June 15 last, as compared with $2.02 June 15, 1913, and $2.22 at the same date, 1912.

Hogs sold at $1.8 a hundred pounds June 15, this year; $1.51 a year ago, and $1.65 in 1912.

Veal prices for the same dates were $7.69 in 1914; $7.53 in 1913, and $6.33 in 1912.

Lambs cost more each succeeding year, as did sheep.

In the six months from December 1, last, to June 15, the level of prices for all meat animals advanced 4.4 per cent. This compares with an advance of 12 per cent for the same period a year ago, an advance of 16.8 per cent two years ago, and a decline of 12.3 per cent three years ago, from December 15 to June 15.

Argentine Beef Only Drop In Bucket, Says Houston

Argentine beef, or other foreign imported meat, cannot be identified for the consumer, under the law providing for importation, according to the statement today from the office of Secretary of Agriculture Houston. Section 546 of the tariff act, which provides for importation free, states explicitly that meat shall be "deemed and treated as the domestic product." This prevents any marking.

Secretary Houston has not received a recent letter from Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' League, asking that Argentine beef be marked or identified, so that consumers could obtain a refund of 10 cents a pound for the tariff. A letter of this purport was received by the Secretary from Mrs. Heath and answered.

Imports of Argentine and other beef provide but a "drop in the bucket" of the American meat supply, according to the statement today of officials of the department. Monthly importation of all meats are averaging about 30,000,000 pounds, according to the department statistics. In April last something over 17,000,000 pounds were supplied from the Argentine.

One of the meat experts of the department declared that this was only enough for soup for a couple of days in the month for the 100,000,000 population of the United States.

The bulk of all importations are made by the American packers.

High Meat Prices May Last Until Next Spring

PITTSBURGH, July 15.—Having soared from 2 cents to 5 cents per pound within the last two weeks, meats in Pittsburgh continued to rise today. Leading butchers predicted that the aviation would continue until next spring. Prices today as compared with prices of July 1 were: Beefsteaks, 25, 30, 25 cents per pound as against 20, 25 and 20 cents; Veal, 20, 25, as against 15 and 20 cents; Pork, 20, 25, as against 15 and 20 cents. Leading dealers expressed the belief that the rise was due to the heavy demand for veal of the last two years. Last year they said "too many veal calves were killed."

Gold-Headed Canes All Clardy Left His Sons

ST. LOUIS, July 15.—One gold-headed cane to each of his sons is bequeathed in the will of Martin L. Clardy, former general solicitor of the Missouri Pacific railroad. The entire estate, estimated at $500,000, is left to his widow.

Ban on Cigarettes.

BERLIN, July 15.—Orders were issued to all branches of the Bavarian army today that cigarettes should not be purchased from firms connected with the tobacco trust. The war ministry thus backed up the action started against the trust when the sale of its cigarettes was prohibited in railway stations.

Mrs. Alfred O. Dunk, Michigan chairman of the National Housewives' League, announced today that the local organization would co-operate with the National League, should a meat boycott be declared.

Even Pat Dolan's Puts "Ham and" to 15 Cents

NEW YORK, July 15.—Even Pat Dolan's famous world over for a half century—has been hit by the increase in meat prices—and "ham and" today went up for a time to 15 cents.

The following notice was posted in his lunch room, which was opened in 1865:

Owing to the high cost of living I will have to raise the price on all meat orders five cents. Beef, pork, and ham—have been the principal dishes ever since the restaurant was opened by Pat Dolan. Beans is the "and" portion of the order, and it always was a "thousand on a plate" that accompanied the order of meat for 10 cents. Pat Dolan died years ago, but he left his nephew, P. J. Meehan, to "feed the boys." In explaining the rise in prices, Meehan said today:

"And I got to give the boys the best there is. They've raised the price of meat on me, and I can't afford to put up the 'beef and' any more for a dime. I'm not going to give the boys cheap meat for they always got the best I could get. The only thing I could see to do was to raise the price."

Consternation reigned today when the notice went up. Many a man walked into the little lunch room and ordered "beef and" with but a dime in the pocket. He saw the notice of the raise in prices. But Meehan came to the rescue, saying that he could have the one last dish for 10 cents.

Philadelphia Quotes All Meats Advanced

Sirloin steak was quoted today at 25 cents; round steak at 20; rib roast at 20; spring lamb at 18 to 25; and veal chops at 25 cents.

Woman Asks Houston For Inquiry on Meat

CLEVELAND, July 15.—Miss Henrietta De Graul, secretary of the Cleveland Housewives' League, today telegraphed Secretary of Agriculture Houston, urging an immediate investigation of the disposition of Argentine beef imported into this country. Her action followed that of Mrs. Julian Heath, national president of the league, in New York, who has demanded a federal investigation.

The Roosevelts Return.

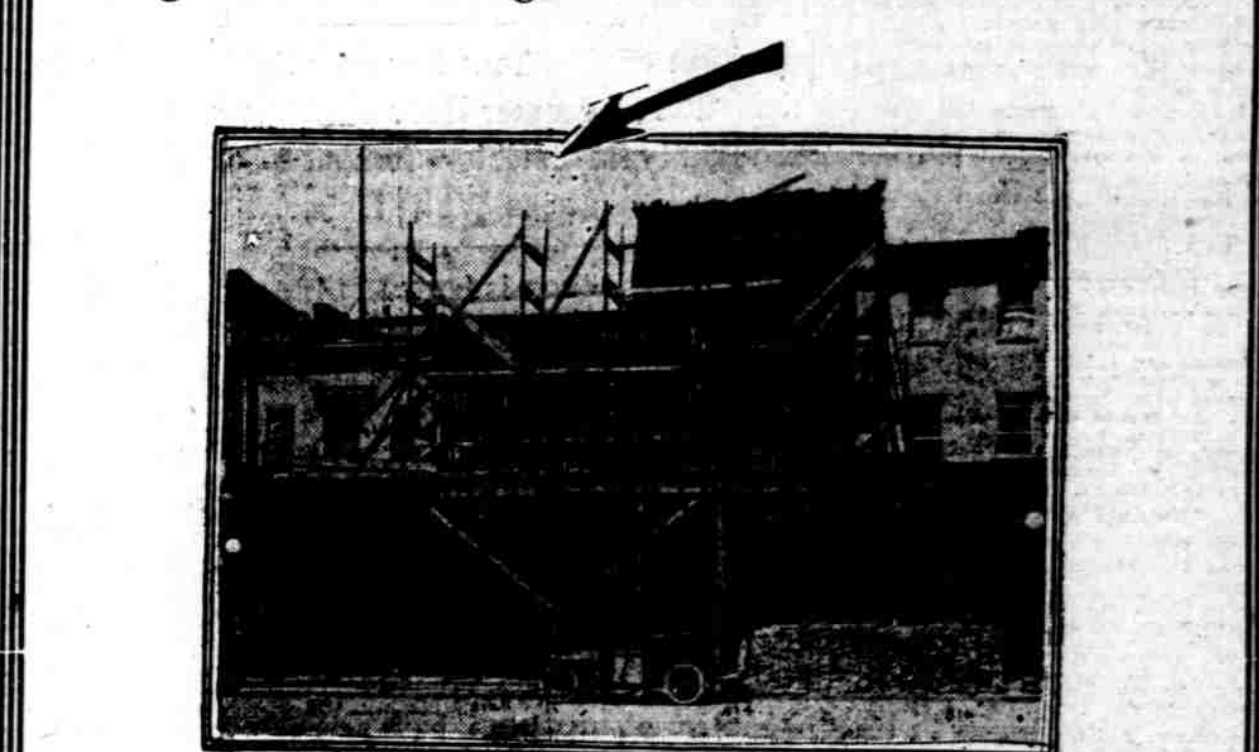

NEW YORK, July 15.—Kermit Roosevelt and his bride, and his sister, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, were among the passengers on the Imperator, which arrived here today. Colonel Roosevelt came down from Oyster Bay to meet his son and daughter-in-law.
